Tom Patterson Profile

www.TPatterson.NET

Tom Patterson is a business advisor in the areas of security, commerce, and governance, and a former partner at both Deloitte and KPMG, and Chief eCommerce Strategist with IBM's Internet Division.

Tom is the author of the upcoming book: Mapping Security--Corporate Security Sourcebook for Today's Global Economy. Tom recently signed with Addison Wesley to publish this first book, with two more (Privacy & Governance) in the works.

As the International Partner in Charge of Deloitte's Security Services Group in Europe, Middle East, and Africa, Tom has worked with company executives, sales teams, technical teams, and outside boards in over 30 countries. Tom has started three organizations that have each processed over $500 million dollars online.

In addition to sitting on two public boards, one audit committee, and lecturing on the security implications of Corporate Governance, Tom has advised the White House, U.S. Congress, DoD, DoC, NYSE, Fortune 500 companies, entrepreneurial start-ups, and the Venture funding communities. Tom is the Executive Director for the IPv6 Business Council.

Tom regularly appears as a guest expert on CNBC and other leading media outlets around the world.

"Tom's decades at the forefront of helping corporations and governments with strategic security decisions, makes him the perfect voice of experience to filter out the hyperbole and focus on the real requirements of security."

-Dr. Craig Fields, Ph.D, former Director
Defense Advance Research Projects Agency (DARPA).
